

Living Hope Church drops plastic eggs from helicopter

Times Staff | Posted: Monday, April 25, 2011 12:01 pm

John Luke | The Times

Hundreds of children bolt to pick up candy dropped from a helicopter and plastic eggs scattered by volunteers Saturday morning as they participate in the first Easter Eggstravaganza at Living Hope Church in Merrillville.

Raining Easter eggs

John Luke | The Times

Volunteers from Living Hope Church dump thousands of candy pieces down to an eagerly awaiting crowd of children on the church's north lawn Saturday morning. The event was the first Easter Eggstravaganza for children 12 and younger.

Raining Easter eggs

John Luke | The Times

Alexis Ortiz, left, and Logan George, both of Hammond, wait for a candy drop at Living Hope Church in Merrillville.